

Model Portfolio Adventurous

January 2024

Objective

This portfolio is NOT a risk-free portfolio, rather, it is suitable for a client who is prepared to invest the majority of their overall portfolio into equities, accepting a high level of risk for a potentially higher reward. The primary objective of this portfolio is to generate a long-term total return and income above the Bank of England's base rate and real terms growth (above inflation) which is substantially higher than the long-term return on cash after fees and costs. This portfolio has no capital preservation mandate and can take an unconstrained amount of risk, investing in all assets that are available from the investment universe to achieve the objectives. Due to the higher risk nature of this portfolio, the recommended time-horizon is a minimum of 10 years.

Management

The benchmark we use for comparison purposes for volatility is AFI Aggressive noting that this benchmark currently holds 81.09% in Equity (Analytics, 1st January 2024) and is therefore less aggressive than this portfolio. It would therefore be expected that the benchmark would underperform the portfolio and that the volatility of the portfolio would be higher. The model performance therefore cannot be directly compared to the benchmark.

Market Outlook

Global equity markets continued to rally in December on the back of ongoing optimism surrounding future rate cuts, with inflation data in key developed economies supporting the prospect of central banks delivering a ‘soft-landing’ in which inflation continues to moderate without significant economic weakness. China remained a key outlier to the broad rally in equity markets, as ongoing property sector woes and whipsawing policies saw sentiment to the region remain subdued. Despite the recent strength in equity markets over the past two months, we remain cautious on the outlook as valuations appear stretched, with a number of potential headwinds expected to weigh on valuations. With earnings season set to begin in the middle of January, we will be watching corporate profitability closely for any signs of pressure that could potentially cool the recent strength we’ve seen in equity markets.

We expect the first quarter of 2024 to remain volatile, with geopolitical tensions, slowing economic activity and declining corporate profitability weighing on markets in the short term, however as these short-term headwinds clear throughout the year, the outlook is beginning to brighten, with interest rate cuts expected in the second half of the year. We are therefore more optimistic for asset returns in the second half of the year and beyond, as the key headwinds that have weighed on sentiment over the last 2 years such as high inflation and restrictive policy continue to ease.

Portfolio Positioning

The diversified nature of the portfolios has allowed them to take advantage of the uplift in both fixed income and equity markets, delivering positive risk-adjusted returns over the month and over 2023 as a whole. With yields declining sharply throughout December, the portfolio’s exposure to smaller companies and more growth focussed assets made the largest positive contributions to performance, whereas our Asian exposure acted as a slight headwind given the weakness seen from China. Over the long-term, we remain confident that the portfolio’s diverse asset allocation can deliver positive returns despite the potential for financial market volatility to persist over the year. However as outlined, we expect to see key macroeconomic headwinds to continue to clear throughout 2024, and therefore believe that a more supportive investment environment, particularly for growth assets, should continue to drive positive returns.

Portfolio Volatility

This scatter chart reflects annualised volatility and return in GBP over the past 5 years. Over the long term, we would expect the OBI portfolio to exhibit a lower level of volatility than the benchmark.
